

Pallas Attorneys-at-Law

Specialists in employment law
with an international focus

Pallas Attorneys-at-Law

Are you looking for a strategic partner in employment law and employee participation law? Pallas Attorneys-at-Law is an expert in employment law and labour law issues, specializing particularly in cross-border related matters. We mainly work for clients with an international focus. Our international network of lawyers, tax experts and recruiters are here to help you.

You are working in a force field with multiple stakeholders. These may include: shareholders, supervisors, trade unions, works councils, management and employees. We understand these relationships and together with you we can determine the necessary strategy to be followed.

What we can offer you:

- National and international experience

Pallas Attorneys-at-Law is here to help you with all your questions relating to employment and labour law. Our lawyers are experienced in dealing with these issues in many fields, both nationally and internationally. Whether these are employment contracts, dismissals, change processes or cross-border situations involving expats, we are your perfect partner.

- Personal approach

Our approach is personal and based on mutual trust. We like short lines of communication and a clear structure, and provide you with a single point of contact for all issues relating to employment and labour law. This allows us to work efficiently and decisively for you.

- High quality

Thanks to our professional expertise and many years of practical experience, we guarantee high quality. Our expertise allows us to view a problem from all angles, even if it goes beyond our own specialist area, as we work closely with other specialists within our national and international network.

- Good value for money

Pallas Attorneys-at-Law is a boutique law firm. This is a deliberate choice. High quality with a personal approach at competitive rates: that is what we offer.

Employment and labour law at the highest level

International employment and labour law

We advise on drafting, amending or terminating employment contracts with an international character and expat policies, as well as secondment arrangements to or from other countries.

Dutch employment and labour law

In supervising dismissal proceedings and collective redundancies, as well as with drafting employment contracts, we provide practical legal assistance and strategic advice.

Employee participation law

We advise on employee participation and representation procedures and setting up different kinds of works councils, including European works councils. The communication strategy always plays a vital role in these processes.

Management agreements, temporary employment contracts and contracts with self-employed workers

These are employment relationships on the basis of a contract for services. We advise on the advantages and disadvantages of these special employment relationships.

In-company courses and training programmes

We organize customized courses and training programmes on employment and labour law and employee participation law, in both Dutch and English. We believe that sharing knowledge is an investment in developing a long-term relationship with our clients.

Know – Like - Trust

We are best able to advise you if we know you and your organization well. That is why we always aim to invest in developing our relationship with you and your company. This way we know what you are involved in and we can take account of your business strategy and commercial interests in our advice. Hardly surprising, then, that our long-standing clients call us regularly to discuss all kinds of issues within their organization, even if these are not directly related to our area of expertise.
